GRUPOS DE INTERESSE: ONE YEAR ON...

At the FNAPLV Congress 1989 we started the first "Grupo de Interesse" in Portugal - Grupo de Interesse: Learner Independence Portugal, or "GI - LIP" to its friends!

The idea was that space in the APPI Newsletter is limited, and if we want to read more articles about the areas that interest us then we should have a dedicated newsletter for those special areas. Both IATEFL and TESOL have these sub-groups.

The first IATEFL "Special Interest Group" (SIG) was Teacher Development, which started in 1986. Since then, SIGs have mushroomed and today, in IATEFL for example, there are 11 groups: Business English, Computers (MEVSLI), Learner Independence, Phonology, Teacher Development, Teacher Training, Testing, ELT Management, Literature, Video, and Young Learners. Parallel groups also exist in TESOL, each of these sub-groups has its own newsletter and in January of each year, the IATEFL SIGs have their own "mini-conference" over and above the main IATEFL Conference in March/April.

The way APPI GIs are organised is the following: members of the GIs have to pay a sum — currently 500$00 — on top of their annual APPI membership. For this, GI members receive a newsletter four times a year included with their APPI Newsletter.

If you are interested in starting a Grupo de Interesse — we have already had enquiries about Young Learners, Teacher Training and Teaching Literature — you need to know the following:

- a) you need to get a list of 40 interested APPI members;
- b) each group should have a Treasurer, a Secretary and a Newsletter Co-ordinator;
- c) the Newsletter may well need a sponsor to cover the cost of copying and printing. The cost of this is approximately 15.000$00 per (double A4) issue or 55.000$00 per year.
- d) APPI will cover the costs of occasional one-off special letters or extra pages, etc.;
- e) any activity undertaken by the group must be self-financing; local conferences or meetings will therefore have to charge members and will be open only to APPI members (who may be required also to join the relevant GI).

You might also like to know that is quite a lot of work, and that contributions have to be forced from friends and colleagues as publication day approaches.

Otherwise, it is a great opportunity to bore your friends with how much you know about your chosen area! At the Congress, please look out for information regarding Grupos de Interesse and tell your friends to join if you are already a member! Every victim counts!

GI: GJP MEETING — APPI CONFERENCE

There will be a meeting for those interested in forming a Young Learners Special Interest Group with the aim of learning more about our different teaching situations through being mutually supportive. This could include a regular interchange of ideas, reciprocal visits, workshops, team-teaching whatever the group members feel would be most mutually beneficial.

GI - GJP MEETING ROOM AX FRIDAY 19<sup>00</sup>

GI — Grupo de Interesse
GJP — Gente Jovem Portugal

GI - GJP/SESSIONS: 18 - 20 - 22 (CW)
40 - 58 - 68 - 69

GI: LIP

It could be said, then, that the Independence SIG is the ideal first Gi-SIG: it says that perhaps teachers are not the fount of all knowledge; that there are areas where our "victims" could also participate!

Learner Independence covers many areas, but the main ones are the following:

- Second Language Learning/Acquisition Theories
- Learner Development and Learner Training
- Devolving/Negotiating the Syllabus and/or the Curriculum
- Learner-Centred Methodologies
- Self-Access
- Learner Self-Assessment

Some of these areas overlap. Some of them may even be in conflict with each other! But all share the idea that teaching is about enabling learners to learn. It is doing things with learners, rather than doing things to learners. It involves listening rather than telling...

Why is it that the most common typing error for "leaner" is "learner"? Who are they leaning on, and how can we encourage learners to stand on their own two feet?

British Council, Lisbon

Presentations and Learner - Designed Lessons

The effective presentation of information is a basic teacher skill, but can learners evaluate their own and each other's presentations? Presentations provide a focus for topic-based lessons and project work. But could they also lead to the learners developing their own lesson and extension activities: a short cut to learner-prepared lessons?

Principles of Creativity
How can you teach learners to express their ideas in English when they have no ideas to express? True, but you can teach them how to generate ideas by following certain creative principles. The session will demonstrate some of these principles.
Sexta-feira 09:00 - 10:00 Gin/MH

DAWBBER, ALAN KEITH - 59
British Institute/Porto

Workshop

Teaching Elementary Learners without Book or Back-Up
An exploitation of syllabus design and materials production at beginner's or elementary levels, encouraging confidence-building in designing own syllabuses and materials and asking the question: What if there is no book or there are no published materials? Could we/can we teach effectively?
Sábado 11:00 - 13:00 D14

DELLER, SHEELAGH - 24
Pilgrim's Language Courses, Canterbury

Workshop

Student Generated Teaching
"I'm bored with my teaching" - a teacher: "I don't feel 'me' in the classroom" - a learner. Student generated teaching is one way of addressing these feelings. It empowers the learners to contribute and provide their own materials. It frees teachers from materials preparations. The classroom becomes a place where language evolves unpredictably within a framework provided by the teacher.
